the other thing that's weighing on me is, Doc and Patt have a large network of friends and supporters. as this all goes down, hes going to be in full victim mode and a LOT of people are going to leap to this defense. there's going to be a frack ton of gaslighting.

Yes, when I know all the players, and have worked with them, and know how they think and how they system is rigged, yes, I need to consider all the angles about how BEST to approach this, how most effectively to do things, so that the end result is good.

I've seen how they treat people who tried to speak up, whether they were lying or not. It's not pretty.

If that is true, then PRF is a place you really don't want to work anyway because it's a protective place for people with extremely bad behavior. And it needs to be taken out before more people get hurt
